On embarkation day, a hold of between $100 and $200 (depending on cruise length) is placed on all credit and debit card accounts to verify that the card is valid. Once spending on the expense account reaches that hold, additional holds are obtained as needed. After your cruise, Carnival will immediately settle your account with your bank but holds may remain on your account for one or more days depending on your issuing bank's authorization hold policy, limiting your access to funds.
